

Cameron Mactavish

Cameron J. Mactavish, AIA, LEED is a founding partner of Voith & Mactavish Architects LLP, established in 1988. An alumnus of Drexel University, he was honored with the Rankin-Epstein Distinguished Alumni Award in 2004. With particular interest and expertise in historic preservation, Mr. Mactavish was principal-in-charge of the award-winning rehabilitations of both the Centennial Bank building into the Paul Peck Alumni Center at Drexel University, and Philips Memorial Hall at Westchester University, featuring the Emilie K. Asplundh Concert Hall. His keen interest in sustainable design is evidenced by his current work for the Oxford Community Center, as well as multiple projects for educational institutions.
